

The top management of Ganz Transformer and Electrical Rotating Machine Manufacturing Ltd. is committed to sustainable development and responsible operation.

In our activities, we strive to use the most modern technology and to use the available environmental elements such as water, air, soil and energy resources to the minimum extent possible. Protecting our environment is of paramount importance to us, and we continuously monitor and aim to reduce our energy consumption and waste.

In its operations, Ganz Transformer and Electrical Rotating Machinery Manufacturing Ltd. supports the reuse and recycling of useful materials that are no longer useful to it, thereby reducing the additional environmental burden. In addition, it is constantly looking for ways to increase the proportion of materials that it can no longer use but which can still be used as secondary raw materials.

The top management of Ganz transformer and Electrical Rotating Machine Manufacturing Ltd. is determined to implement these considerations among our suppliers, partners and direct and indirect stakeholders, thus promoting sustainable development.

While preserving environmental values, our company is committed to operating in a socially responsible manner. This is a constant and prominent consideration in the decisions we take in the course of our Company's operations.

We ensure non-discriminatory and ethical conduct at all levels of our activities, in compliance with both the national and international legal environment, and the principles of occupational safety, health and environmental awareness.

All employees of Ganz Transformer and Electric Rotating Machinery Factory Ltd. are aware of the sustainability policy of the Company and strive to keep it in mind and to fully comply with it in the performance of their activities.

Our sustainability system is reviewed annually and our employees receive continuous training.
